Christopher Sims
John J.F. Sherrerd '52 University
Professor of Economics

Specialty: Econometrics and banking

Noteworthy: Received the 2011
Nobel Prize in economics with New York University economist Thomas Sargent. They were credited with revolutionizing
the field of macroeconomics and how it is applied by central banks and governments.

11

current Princeton faculty members are Nobel Prize winners.

Tracy K. Smith
Roger S. Berlind '52 Professor of the Humanities

Director of creative writing program

Specialty: Poetry

Noteworthy: Serving her second term as U.S. Poet Laureate. She seeks to encourage a greater appreciation of poetry, which plays a role in "fostering a mindful, empathic and resourceful culture."

Support

We support your academic success. That "we" means a lot of people from academic advisers in the residential colleges to professors across all fields of study. Ruha Benjamin, associate professor of African American studies, likes to infuse a little bit of the personal into her teaching. "So my students feel connected to me as a human being, not just as a professor," she says.

Learn With Leaders

Emily Carter
Dean of the School of Engineering and Applied Science

Specialty: Energy and the environment

Noteworthy: Takes an interdisciplinary team approach to creating effective fuel cells, using sunlight to generate electricity and make liquid fuels from carbon dioxide and water, and investigating lightweight metal alloys for vehicles and fusion reactor walls.

We expect every faculty member to teach. Our world-class scholars are engaged with and accessible to students.

Cecilia Rouse
Dean of the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs

Specialty: Labor
economics; the economics
of education

Noteworthy: Served as a member of President Barack Obama's Council of Economic Advisers in 2009-11.

Mentor

You will work with Princeton faculty members up close. Many Princeton students form meaningful relationships with their professors, who are also mentors. Such connections often extend well beyond students' time at Princeton. Brian Kernighan, professor of computer science, has mentored generations of students and helped them build professional networks beyond campus.

Teach

Princeton's deep commitment to undergraduate teaching will bring you many opportunities to work closely with professors on a wide range of topics, such as with Matias Iaryczower, associate professor of politics, who teaches "Mathematical Models in the Study of Politics."

Know that the faculty are here for you, and so are your terrific residential college deans, directors of studies and directors of student life. Know that we all have your backs.

Jill Dolan
Dean of the college

More than 75%
of our classes have fewer than 20 students.

Ali Valenzuela, assistant professor of politics, works with many students on their independent work. He often meets students over meals in the residential colleges, and, as a child of immigrants, offers valued support to students finding a home at Princeton.
